"DOCUMENTATION, INTERPRETATION AND RESTORATION OF BUILT HERITAGE: COMPLEX OF ROGLJEVO & RAJAC WINE CELLARS"

1-15 July 2021

Application deadline: June 10, 2021

Official language: English, Serbian

Organizers: Grupa arhitekata (Belgrade, Serbia) | Supported by the Project "#EUforYou – for cultural heritage and Tourism", Cultural Heritage without Borders Albania

PROGRAM

The program encourages multidisciplinary international cooperation, addresses issues of implementation and monitoring of heritage protection projects within the local, regional and European framework.

The Summer School will be held from July 1 to 15, 2021. The working day runs from 10:00 am to 7:00 pm (including a lunch break for 1 hour). The program has two modules that focus on documentation, interpretation and restoration of heritage, through the applied work on historical structures in Rogljevo and Rajac. The school will be organized through two parallel modules for a period of 15 days, with the participants selecting one of the modules and making the final work. Lectures will be held in the afternoons and they are common to both modules, while in the afternoon, practical work on the field will be organized.

MODULE 1 - DOCUMENTATION AND INTERPRETATION OF BUILT HERITAGE

The participants will work on the recording and production of technical documentation for sabor (convocation houses) in Rogljevo and Rajac, using standard survey techniques. Participants will also learn about new methodologies and technologies used for this purpose, with a comment on what technologies are available in Serbia and how the selection and scope of survey is performed. Participants will be presented with the basic principles of heritage interpretation, and for the purpose of preparing and creating an adequate presentation to various audiences.

STUDY TRIP

A study trip to the Gamzigrad will be organized on the 7th day of the Summer School.

MODULE 2 - RECONSTRUCTION OF WINE CELLARS: CONSTRUCTION TECHNIQUES, METHODOLOGY OF RESTORATION AND MAINTENANCE OF HISTORICAL STRUCTURES – EARTH AND LIME ARCHITECTURE, ROOF RESTORATION

The participants will work on the restoration of the elements of the architecture of the cellars located within the complex of the Rogljevo and Rajac wine cellars. Students will work on the preparation and application of mud plaster and restoration of walls and elements of wooden construction. In addition to training for old building techniques, training on historical and modern tools will also be carried out.

Supervision and expertise will be provided by the Republic Institute for the Protection of Cultural Monuments.

The program is divided into two basic segments, in terms of field work: theoretical and practical part, which involves work on the objects themselves, with intensive training and careful supervision. Theoretical knowledge is provided by the distinguished professors and experienced and certified professionals from Serbia and abroad. Craft and conservation techniques and skills will be presented by the experienced and certified craftsmen through conservation and restoration works on the protected structures in situ.

Organizers will provide a detailed certificate for obtaining ECTS points.

APPLICATIONS

We invite international participants - professionals and students in the fields of architecture, technology, construction, sustainable construction, building physics, architectural conservation and art history, as well as enthusiasts. Previous knowledge is not necessary.

COSTS AND FEES

The school is subsidized; hence the registration is 6000,00 RSD (~50 EUR) for the entire duration of the school and includes the costs of the training (workshops + lectures), working materials and accommodation (three meals a day + overnight). We provide accommodation in the pension, in the immediate vicinity of the site.

The registration fee does not cover travel expenses.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: the organizer will adhere to the prescribed measures to prevent the spread of Covid-19 disease. A list of the relevant websites of the ministries will be provided.

The organizer reserves the right to change the program. All the changes will be timely communicated.
